

DepEd launches bootcamp for campus journo in Calabarzon

CALAMBA CITY (PIA) – Known as a training ground for up-and-coming journalists and media practitioners, campus journalism has taken another level and will now include an education bootcamp to better prepare students for the regional competitions.

Eugene Ray Santos, Education Program Supervisor of the Department of Education (DepEd) in CALABARZON, stated that the Education Bootcamp Series is designed to provide holistic training for campus journalists competing for the National Schools Press Conference (NSPC).

"This is our way of leveling the playing field while raising the standards of campus journalism in CALABARZON."

As the proponent of the training series, Santos said the revamped Regional Schools Press Conference (RSPC) provides campus journalists with unhindered access to quality training and mentorship on writing, broadcasting and journalism ethics.

"It also addresses the overwhelming volume of contest entries that previously slowed down the judging process and affected consistency in evaluation."

The new edition of the CALABARZON RSPC, slated to launch in Rizal Province in 2026, will include a lecture series focusing on journalism ethics, news and feature writing, photojournalism, and broadcast and digital journalism.

In a statement, DepEd CALABARZON noted that the new RSPC will serve as a training ground for skilled and ethical young journalists.

"As the RSPC 2026 unfolds under this
