Blinken hails Pinoy nurses
as ‘angels’; PBBM
‘terribly proud’ of health workers

Secretary of State Antony Blinken on Saturday hailed Filipino nurses working in the United States, calling them “angels” who are “caring in so many ways.”
“There are not so many angels in the world.
But if there are angels in the United States, among the angels are the Filipino nurses who are caring in so many ways all throughout our country for our fellow Americans,” Blinken said during his courtesy call on President Ferdinand “Bong-bong” Marcos Jr.

ferent experiences in the past. And that, on a most human level, is profoundly touching,” Blinken told the chief executive.
For his part, Marcos said he is “terribly proud” of all healthcare workers who are fighting the COVID-19 pandemic
on all fronts.
“We are so terribly proud of our healthcare workers, the doctors and nurses, the Filipinos who have been working in the United States and the way they performed in the face of COVID,”
said Marcos.
“We were here
watching them and saying again that we Filipinos are playing a global role in combatting this pandemic,” he added.

Marcos said the dedication shown by Filipino healthcare workers is a value every Filipino should be proud of.
“Again, it makes us remind ourselves that there are qualities of Filipinos that we should be very proud of,” he said.
Blinken said
Washington is proud to be Manila’s partner in diverse global issues, including efforts to fight COVID-19 and the need to address climate change.
“We have been proud to be your partner in working on that and protecting all of our people. Whether it’s climate and the need to deal with that existential challenge or whether it’s the impact of all these new technologies on the lives of our people,” Blinken said.

Joining Blinken
in the meeting were US Ambassador MaryKay

retary for East Asian and

Contact Center
ng Bayan: Isang
Dekada ng
Paglilingkod

Chairperson Nograles noted in a statement that the Civil Service Commission’s (CSC) Contact Center ng Bayan (CCB) has received and acted on more than one million concerns of the Filipino people on government frontline services.
This public feedback facility was established in 2012 through the joint initiatives of the CSC and the Department of Information and Communications Technology (formerly National Computer Center).
This project also played a major role in supporting the call for government agencies to remain responsive as the country cautiously emerges from the COVID-19 pandemic.
“In its 10 years of existence, the CCB has served as a bridge between customers and the government. Data generated by the facility has been credited by government agencies as basis for improving the quality of service delivery,” the CSC chief said.
He cited the SSS as an example. “For instance, the SSS, due to its inclusion in the list of most complained government agencies, pushed for digitalization and the process of acquiring new digital infrastructure for the improvement of its services to its members and pensioners,” the CSC chief said.
The CSC added that in former President Rodrigo Duterte’s Final Report to the People (2016-2021), the CCB was cited as one of the mechanisms through which the government has effectively responded to public concerns.
According to the report: “The ARTA and Civil Service Commission (CSC) has also worked hand-in-hand to resolve issues raised by Juan and Juana dela Cruz regarding the lousy accommodation of public requests and delays in government transactions through the CCB. This allowed both agencies to break bottlenecks in bureaucratic processes and go after incompetent public officers who make our people undergo needless waiting and its resultant stress.”
The 10th anniversary celebration of the establishment of the CCB is part of the activities lined up for the 122nd Philippine Civil Service Anniversary in September. Dubbed Isang Dekada ng Paglilingkod, the event will highlight the CCB’s milestones and contributions to citizen engagement, feedback management, and service delivery improvement.
