

Senadora Pia Cayetano, ibinahagi ang personal na kwento at adbokasiyang pangkalusugan, edukasyon, at enerhiya sa Tanza

Bumisita si Senadora Pia S. Cayetano sa Tanza, Cavite noong Marso 31, 2025 para sa isang multistakeholder meeting na dinaluhan ng mahigit 200 miyembro ng komunidad—kabilang ang mga kapitan ng barangay, SK leaders, BHWs, mga pastora, at Zumba mommies—kung saan muli niyang iginiit ang kanyang pangunahing adbokasiya: kalusugan, edukasyon, at kuryente. Sa kanyang talumpati, ibinahagi ni Senadora Pia ang kanyang personal na karanasan bilang isang ina, abogado, at ling-

Thousands of college students in Cavite receive educational assistance

The Provincial Government of Cavite continues its commitment to supporting students in their pursuit of higher education through the distribution of educational assistance to deserving beneficiaries across several municipalities.

On March 25, 2025, a total of 698 college students from the Municipality of Magallanes received financial aid to help cover their academic expenses. The following day, March 26, 573 college students from Ternate were granted the same support, ensuring that they have the necessary resources to continue their education without financial burden. Meanwhile, on March 27, educational assistance was extended to 269 students from Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo and 834 qualified students from Maragondon, further demonstrating the provincial government's dedication to fostering educational growth and development. This initiative underscores the provincial government's unwavering commitment to empowering Cavite's youth by alleviating financial constraints and promoting academic excellence. Local officials expressed their gratitude to Governor Athena Bryana Tolentino and the entire provincial administration for prioritizing education

PhilHealth: No fees for accreditation of healthcare professionals

MANILA – The Philippine Health Insurance Corporation (PhilHealth) on Monday said it does not collect accreditation fees from healthcare professionals (HCPs) applying for accreditation.

In a public advisory, the state insurer noted the requirements of accreditation of all HCPs regarding premium contributions as stated in its Circular No. 2023-0024.

The circular emphasized the following: All accredited HCPs shall be registered members of PhilHealth. They shall pay at least one month premium contribution during the time that the application was filed; and applicant HCPs who are practicing professionals (in private practice) or who are not formally employed and with missed premium contributions shall be referred to the Collection Section of Local Health Insurance Offices or PROs for appropriate action.

Accredited PhilHealth HCPs are physicians, nurses, dentists and midwives.

"Employed professionals will not be required to submit proof of contributions as their contributions are being handled by their respective employer," PhilHealth said. "Payment of all missed contributions is also not a requirement for accreditation. Missed payment of premium contributions shall be covered by existing guidelines."

However, accredited HCPs, particularly self-employed or non-formally employed practitioners, are reminded to pay their premium contributions regularly to avoid interest on their missed payments.

HCPs who will pay the maximum premium contribution need not submit any proof of income, such as income tax return.

The state insurer said it would refer to the signed PhilHealth membership registration form with self-declaration of income for the HCPs' monthly contribution computation if they opt not to pay the maximum rate. (PNA)

HONEY TO MONEY: Unlocking the Potential of Bee Products and By-Products

The DA-Agricultural Training Institute CALABARZON, in collaboration with the Cavite State University – Bee Research Innovation Trade and Extension (CvSU-BRITE) Center, is currently conducting "HONEY TO MONEY: Training on Bee Products and By-Products Processing."

This specialized training, conducted under the National Livestock Program, aims to provide participants with essential knowledge and practical skills in the proper processing and handling of bee products and by-products. The goal is to enhance their expertise, empowering beekeepers and enthusiasts to fully harness the economic potential of honey and other bee-derived products.

The event commenced with a warm welcome from Ms. Janine L. Cailo, Information Officer III and ISS Chief of DA-ATI CALABARZON, who graced and represented Center Director Dr. Roldando V. Maningas in the opening program and expressed her enthusiasm for the participants' learning journey.

Spanning three days, from April 2, 2025 to April 4, 2025, the training is being held at the DA-ATI CALABARZON Training Hall in Trece Martires City, Cavite.

The DA-Agricultural Training Institute CALABARZON proudly joins the celebration of Filipino Food Month 2025, with the theme: "Sarap ng Pagkaing Pilipino, Yaman ng Kasaysayan, Kultura, at Pagkatao." This month-long celebration, led by the Department of Agriculture (DA) in collaboration with the National Commission for Culture and the Arts (NCCA) and the Department of Tourism (DOT), is made possible through the invaluable partnership of the Philippine Culinary Heritage Movement (PCHM) and other dedicated stakeholders. The event honors our rich culinary heritage while strengthening Filipino food diplomacy, showcasing the depth of Filipino culture, history, and identity through its diverse and flavorful cuisine.

Poe: Print media a bastion of credibility amid fake news

Sen. Grace Poe underscored the vital role of print media as a source of credible information in the era of fake news.

"Print remains essential in media today, because it is seen as a bastion of accountability and responsibility," she said at the induction of officers and general membership meeting of the United Print and Multimedia Group.

"Indeed, the distinct feature of social media is speed; the content creator's objective is to go viral; and the spreading of information or misinformation is easily facilitated by clicking the share button," Poe said.

"On the other hand, ethical practices in journalism, most important of which is fact-checking, are consistently upheld in print media. This is probably why print media is trusted and can confidently brand themselves as the guardians of truth," she added.

Poe said it has

also been observed that traditional print and broadcast media brand have been more resilient to accusations of fake news as compared to social media platforms and digital news outlets.

However, she pointed out that what happens in the digital world affects those in the non-digital arena and can affect public opinion, sell a product, or elect a candidate.

"Freedom of information and access to accurate and correct information are vital to a democratic state such as ours. The power to choose and choose wisely is built upon the premise that ordinary citizens are presented with all the facts," she said.

Poe also reminded that online platforms like Facebook and Tiktok only facilitate the spreading of information.

"The responsibility for the content still lies with the journalists, bloggers, or the ordinary people behind these articles or accounts," she said.

"The same is true for print media. Your role has not been diminished with the passage of time and technology. It is still as important today as it was yesterday," Poe added.

The senator also cited a January 2023 global study of 10,000 consumers commissioned by Two Sides and conducted online by the independent research company, Toluna.

One of the key findings of the survey showed that 71% of respondents believe reading printed materials offers a deeper understanding of the stories.

"Perhaps, print and digital media are complementary, and not mutually exclusive. Print media's virtues of depth, thoroughness, and trust can be married to the speed and wide reach of social media," Poe said.

"But I leave that up to the competent minds on how to best integrate print with digital campaigns, and leverage the strengths of each," Poe added.

PIA chief urges youth to fight...p1 technic University of the Philippines (PUP), De Castro emphasized the crucial role of young Filipinos in countering false information, particularly on social media.

"Naniniwala ako na ang kabataang Pilipino ang may pinakamalakas na boses sa social media," she said in her speech.

(I believe that Filipino youth have the strongest voice on social media)

She concluded her speech with a message re-echoing the message from Presidential Communications Office Secretary Jay Ruiz saying, "The voice of truth should be louder than lies. It should always be louder than lies."

The event was jointly organized by the Philippine Coast Guard (PCG), National Youth Commission (NYC), PUP, and PIA's National Capital Region office as part of ongoing educational initiatives about maritime sovereignty.

De Castro cited Social Weather Stations research indicating many Filipinos struggle to identify legitimate news, a concern she linked directly to national security interests in disputed waters.

"There are groups using fake news to confuse the public and weaken our position," she said. "We should not simply believe everything we read or see, especially on social media."

The PIA chief highlighted recent similar forums held at other state universities across Luzon, including Gaganay State University, Tarlac State University, and recent visits to Sorsogon and Legazpi.

She called for strengthening existing legislation like the Cybercrime Prevention Act and implementing international standards for content moderation on social platforms.

"The fight against fake news is everyone's fight," De Castro concluded. "You will be the next leaders and defenders of the country."

PCG spokesperson for WPS Commodore Jay Tarriela, NYC Commissioner-at-Large, Assistant Secretary Karl Josef Legazpi, and PIA-NCR chief Emver Cortez also participated in the symposium, which focused on increasing awareness about territorial issues in the West Philippine Sea. (JCO/PIA-NCR)
