Tagaytay reaches carrying capacity says NEDA study

tional Economic and Development Authority (NEDA) Region IV-A revealed that Tagaytay City had reached critical levels on road capacity, water supply and air quality, causing pressure on its physical and natural resourc-

The most critical concern is the water supply as the current supply of 23,340 m3/day is not enough to meet the daily demand of 28,176 m3/day which includes not just the residents but commercial establishments catering to tourists. Without the tourists, the current water supply will be enough for the projected population in 2026. The water shortage is evident as water rationing is being experienced by those interviewed in the study.

Another major con-

major roads leading to the City already have moderate to heavy traffic throughout the vear. Heavy traffic is a norm during weekends and holiday seasons making travel to the City very challenging to tourists, while locals opt to stay at home to avoid heavy traffic.

Air quality had also suffered. Carbon emissions of motor vehicles have reached over the capacity for carbon sequestration of the City's green cover. According to public opinion, Tagaytay City has grown warmer.

According to NEDA Assistant Secretary Carlos Bernardo O. Abad Santos, "NEDA intends to promote the conduct of Urban Carrying Capacity (UCC) studies across the country to improve planning of the local govern-

Banua "knowing a city's urban carrying capacity will help the local government and the region's planners and decision-makers to formulate more responsive plans, policies and priority programs and projects, especially during periods of economic shocks such as the recent Taal Volcanic eruption and the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic"

According to Assistant Regional Director Gina T. Gacusan, the pandemic bought the local government time to act on the critical indicators presented. She added that time is of the essence House transportation committee chair Edgar Sarmiento noted that Thailand and Indonesia took a year and a half on the average to be fully cashless.

"In comparison, it's been barely five months from the issuance of the Department Order 2020-012 since the implementation of cashless payment." Sarmiento said.

It was also bared during the committee hearing that the RFID Reader Equipment Machines of the North Luzon Expressway have yet to be upgraded.

Velasco said concerned agencies should have ensured the feasibility of going cashless in the amount of time given to vehicle owners.

"Instead, the implementation on Dec. 1 looked like a dry-run. This defeats the purpose of having our tollways becoming efficient in going cashless," he said.

Toll Regulatory Board Executive Director Abraham Sales said a portion of motorists who passed through tollways on Dec. 1 were allowed to pay cash due to long queues during the first day of implementation of the 100 percent cashless toll collections.

Sales said intermittent heavy traffic was monitored in several expressways from early morning to evening during the program's first day of implementation, with some toll operators deciding to accept cash payments during these periods.

"Yan yung tinatawag namin na (That's what we call) birth pains because it was day one of the implementation of this cashless toll collection program." Sales said.

While they were expecting some traffic as there are still a lot of motorists having their RFID stickers installed in the past days, he said the traffic was made worse by the long weekend, with a lot of motorists coming from provinces and passing through tollways on their way back to Metro Manila.

DOTr Assistant Secretary Goddes Hope Libiran said another reason cited by toll operators for the heavy traffic was the large number of motorists who entered expressways without sufficient balance

"Ang advice nga natin o panawagan sa mga kababayan natin na huwag na hintayin yung kanilang travel papunta sa toll gate para lang magpa-load (Our advice or call to our motorists is not to wait until their travel to load their RFID wallets). They should load in advance," Libiran said.

To help ensure smoother implementation of the cashless toll payments program in the future, Libiran said they have also asked toll operators to establish more offsite RFID installation sites and to hold "massive" information campaigns to help motorists find their nearest installation sites, source:sourcePNA)

Velasco calls for extension of FID installation until March 2021 MANILA - Speaker

Lord Allan Velasco on Monday urged the Department of Transportation (DOTr) to further extend the deadline for installing radio-frequency identification (RFID) stickers on vehicles using the tollways until the first quarter of 2021.

Velasco made the call as tollways experienced gridlock upon the implementation of cashless payment in various expressways on

Speaker Lord Allan Velasco Dec. 1.

He said it would be more realistic if the deadline is further extended to March 31, 2021 to give all motorists enough time to secure the stickers for the cashless payment system, noting that the country continues to grapple with the pandemic where the movement of the people is limited

"At the rate things are going, I don't think all 6.1 million registered vehicles in Metro Manila, Central Luzon and Calabarzon will be provided with RFID stickers by Jan. 11. 2021." Velasco said.

Citing the observations made by the House committee on transportation in its motu-proprio hearing on Nov. 25 regarding the possible implementation problems of the cashless payment scheme at tollways, Velasco said it would take more than two years for all vehicles using the tollways to be provided with the RFID stickers.

MANILA - To introduce sustainable energy for the future of learners, the Imus National High School (INHS) formally launched its solar panels through the Legacy Projects of the City Government of Imus and the Green School Program (GSP).

"Nangangako ako na (I promised that) when the results are in and if we discover and we have the evidence that when we create green schools, learners will learn better, we will use resources more efficiently walang dahilan na hindi natin ipamalita sa ibang sangay, sa ibang DepEd offices sa Calabarzon at sa buong bansa na ang gawain katulad nito ay dapat na tinutularan (There is no reason why we should not spread to other offices of Department of Education in Calabarzon and throughout the country this kind of project that should be emulated)," DepEd Undersecretary for Curriculum and Instruction Diosdado San Antonio said in a news release on Thursday.

Led by INHS Principal Arturo Rosaroso Jr., INHS and GSP held previous projects such as improvised water harvesters, greening, and recycling projects that led to the granting of solar panels.

"Ito na ang realisasyon ng isang pangarap. Pangarap lamang ito noong simula, pangarap kung saan gusto po nating ipakita, hindi lamang dito sa ating paaralan kundi pati [na rin] sa ating lungsod na ang mga nanunungkulan at ang buong mamamayan ng Imuseño ay mayroong totoong pagmamahal, pagbibigay importansya, at pangangalaga sa ating kapaligiran (It was a realization of a dream where we want to show not only in our school but throughout the city that our leaders and people of Imus care for our environment)," Imus Mayor Emmanuel Maliksi said.

Led by Maliksi, the grant was in partnership with Manila Electric Company (Meralco) under the Imus City Legacy Projects which aims to create a clean and green city.

"Sa Imus, kaalinsabay sa pag-unlad ay ang pangangalaga sa kalikasan, kasama ito sa pinahahalagahan natin. Hindi lang ito basta proyekto kundi mga programa na magiging Legacy Project na iiwan ng ating lungsod para sa susunod pang mga henerasyon (In Imus, as we progress, we want also to protect our environment. This is not just a project but a program that will become legacy project that we will leave for the next generations of the city)," Imus Vice Mayor Arnel Cantimbuhan said.

In response to the harmful effects on the environment and the increasing expenses of the school, INHS has switched environmental-friendly to alternatives to sustain its in-Cont.on PAGE2
