

Be wary of FB pages promising cash, jobs - DOLE

The labor department has warned the public against bogus Facebook pages promising cash or prizes in exchange for likes and shares as well as those purportedly hiring for employment.

"Verify the registration of such companies with appropriate government agencies before engaging with them, especially in providing information," DOLE warned.

The alert came after DOLE acted on a complaint against a certain company named 'Eternal Investment' alleging that it is gathering people on Facebook and assigning them to job positions on a voluntary or commission basis.

Recruits are allegedly assigned to positions such as executives, managers, and graphic artists.

The complaint also claimed that 'Eternal Investment' is reportedly "manipulating people and not paying proper dues based on the output of the volunteers."

Upon coordination with the Department of Trade and Industry, it was found out that 'Eternal Investment' is not on the DTI's

Online information business will be super fine!

We saw kung gaano kaconvenient ang matuto ng skills na gusto natin i-enhance or matutunan just inside of our room in front of our mobile phone or computer. This opens up a big opportunity para for content creators, speakers, trainers and educators to sell their knowledge and expertise online.

If you are one of them, why not monetize your amazing cake recipe? Why not hold an online seminar? Why not sell your online tutorial pay per view or subscription based? For me, information provision is one of next big thing in business and there is even a projection that this decade will be huge for online content and education,

Even with the pandemic caused by the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19), the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) is directed to prioritize the registration of at least five million low-income household heads to the Philippine Identification System (PhilSys) to have a national ID.

Republic Act No. 11055, otherwise known as the Philippine Identification System Act, aims to establish a single national identification system for all citizens and resident aliens of the Republic of the Philippines.

Signed into law by President Rodrigo Roa Duterte in August 2018, the valid proof of identity provided by the PhilSys shall be a means of simplifying public and private transactions, and shall be a social and economic platform that promotes seamless social service delivery and strengthening of financial inclusion for both public and private services.

Cavite Governor Jonvic Remulla

Cavite Governor Jonvic Remulla happily shared in a Facebook post that no new case of coronavirus disease (COVID-19) was recorded in the province on January 3, 2021.

According to him, "For the first time since the ECQ lockdown that started on March 2020, the latest report to me by the Provincial Health Surveillance Officer recorded ZERO reported cases of COVID-19 across Cavite on January 3, 2020."

Although happy with this news, the governor reminded not to be too complacent because we are still facing a fight.

"But don't celebrate just yet. Despite the relative flattening of the curve, we are still far from safety and success," ani Remulla.

"We expect that because of the recent influx of people in malls, including Christmas gatherings, drinking with friends and other holiday celebrations, the case of COVID positive may increase again from January 10-14," he continued.

In the end, Remulla advised citizens to take extra precautions so that the disease does not spread again in Cavite.

"Don't forget to be very careful and constantly monitor events and throughout the environment."

Research) at the Pangasinan State University; CGNIES (Center for Green Nanotechnology Innovations for Environmental Solutions) at the University of Mindanao; and the Father Saturnino Urios University (FSUU) in Butuan City's project called "decision support for welfare of citizens".

"SoFFReL aims to (explore on) additive manufacturing techniques to support the metal freeform industry. It will take steps to further improve the products of metal industries in Pangasinan, such as blacksmith, metalcraft, nipa, salt, and moringa," Paringit said.

Those steps, he said, include 3-D printing of obsolete machine parts used to process salt, nipa, moringa, sword handle, and souvenirs.

"With modern technology like 3-D printing, they can do whatever design they want, and prototypes can be tested right after printing. Using 3-D printers, the researcher, blacksmith, the machinist can compare outcomes with parts as designed, and automatically make adjustments," he said.

The CGNIES concept, on the other hand, is to develop materials from natural or environmentally neutral sources for various applications that would enhance the products using nanotechnology.

"An example from the CGNIES (concept) is using durian rinds as additives for the cement to 'self-heal'. Imagine cement wall cracks that would disappear by itself," Paringit said.

He said the FSUU's project, though no specific name yet, was classified as an IDP and would analyze senior citizens data such as location, age, condition, to come up with programs to support their needs such as assistance services and maintenance medicines.

"The development of data analytics and information system will be a great help in processing and analyzing available data to maximize policy formulation and implementation, project development and service delivery for the benefit of Butuan City residents," Paringit said, adding that the project proposal is inclined in social empowerment through technology.

Meanwhile, those who will be provided with small grants have applied when the PCIEERD called for proposals that meet the GODDESS criteria.

Paringit said these projects are PhilRice's data analytics on rice production; Isabela State University's "Optimization of Decision Support System for Effective e-Governance" or ODeSSEE on Disaster Preparedness of Cagayan Valley Regional Disaster Risk

projects

MANILA – The Department of Science and Technology-Philippine Council for Industry, Energy and Emerging Technology Research and Development (DOST-PCIEERD) is allocating almost PHP18 million for three infra development projects (IDPs), three small grants for university projects, and a project of the Philippine Rice Research Institute (PhilRice). In an interview with the Philippine News Agency on Tuesday night, PCIEERD executive director Enrico Paringit said the IDP aims to support the establishment of laboratories, while the chosen university projects fall under the Good Governance through Data Science and Decision Support (GODDESS) frame-work.

A memorandum of agreement was signed on Tuesday for all the projects, and funding will be released this year, he said.

Each IDP will be funded for PHP5 million while every university project will be provided with less than PHP1 million.
