PH now working on labor pact with Russia to address plight of undocumented Filipinos—President Duterte

MOSCOW, Russia—The Department of Labor and Employment (DOLE) is working on a bilateral labor agreement with Russia to address the concerns of undocumented Filipinos staying in the country, President Rodrigo Roa Duterte said.

In a speech during a meeting with the Filipino community here, President Duterte said he raised the labor issue of Filipinos in Russia in his bilateral meeting with Russian President Vladimir Putin who also recognized the need for a legal framework in the labor relations between the two countries.

The Russian government, he said, also made an assurance that it will not carry out a crackdown on illegal immigrants considering the hardships being experienced by Filipinos back home.

“Secretary Bello is working on an agreement na kayong nandito staying — overstaying or have had problems, there will be — they will be covered with an understanding,” the President told Filipinos in Russia.

Numbering 10,000 already, the President advised undocumented Filipinos to spend time to renew their passports and reapply for a legal status in Russia to legitimize their stay.

“I’m pleading na huwag kayong gumawa. Do not do anything that will jeopardize the relation at

“They (Russians) would be willing to make an arrangement,” he said.

He also told Filipinos to follow Russia's laws and stay away from trouble.

“Ang aking prayer lang is just abide by the laws of Russia. Sumunod lang kayo sa batas at wala tayong problema. So kayo lahat dito 10,000, wala tayong record ng kalokohan o ano,” he said.

President Duterte also reported to the Filipinos the current developments in the Philippines, renewing his determination to get rid of corruption and illegal drugs in the country.

Also on Saturday, the Chief Executive expressed his gratitude to President Putin for taking care and securing the welfare of the Filipino population here.

“I would like to thank President Putin and the Russian government and the people of Russia for being so nice at hindi kayo pinaghirapan,” he said.

The Russian government was also helpful to the Philippines during its campaign against ISIS-linked Islamists in Marawi City two years ago, the President said, noting the arms supplied by Russia gave the Philippine military crucial support during the

There's a huge potential in Russia's labor market that the Philippines can tap, the Philippine Ambassador to Russia Carlos Sorreta said in previous interview.

Although the country's supply is mostly childcare and household workers, the Philippines can expand to include skilled workers and professionals for Russia's oil industry, mining, and construction.

There are some hurdles, however, such as the continued illegal recruitment of Filipino workers bound for Russia, as well as the use of fake documents by Filipinos. He said such practices may hamper or delay the crafting of a labor pact with Russia.

sioners to know that we value them as one of our key stakeholders in recognition of their support to SSS during their prime, wherein their monthly contributions were the lifeline of the pension fund then," she added.

Under SSS Office Order 2019-004-b, the PLP now grants a higher loanable amount or up to 12 times the basic monthly pension plus the P1,000 additional benefit of the retiree pensioner, longer payment terms and wider range for the age qualification.

Qualified under the new guidelines are retiree pensioners who are 85 years old and below at the end of the loan repayment term if they have no outstanding loan balance, or benefit overpayment payable to SSS from his monthly pension. He must also have no existing advance pension under the SSS calamity package and must be receiving his regular monthly pension for at least one month and has an "active" pension status.

Moreover, the enhanced PLP guidelines also gave the pension loan borrower a wider option to choose from his loanable amount. From the previous minimum loanable amount of twice his basic monthly pension (BMP) plus the P1,000 additional benefit, the pensioner borrower may now loan up to three times, six times, nine times or 12 times of his BMP plus the P1,000 additional benefit.

The repayment term was also adjusted so that they have the option to pay their loan in six, 12 or 24 months with the first monthly amortization to be due on the second month after the loan is granted.

"We enhanced the PLP rules to provide qualified SSS pensioners with a higher loanable amount at a longer payment term and discouraging them from transacting with loan organizations which charge steep interest rates. We hope that more pensioners will be encouraged to avail of this loan as this only incurs an interest rate of 10 percent per annum," Ignacio said.

To recall, SSS implemented the PLP last September 2018 in response to the clamor of senior citizens to prevent the growing incidence of pensioners falling victims to loan sharks and help them with their short-term needs and has so far released 59,224 pension loans amounting to P1.4 billion as of September 30.

Based on the loan term, 0.8 percent of the pensioner-borrowers preferred the three-month term, 5.88 percent for six months, and 93.32 percent for 12 months as of end-September 2019.

"In January, we have already eased our guidelines, wherein those who are receiving their monthly pension even for just a month and is already posted in the system is already qualified to avail of the SSS pension loan. We continuously develop programs to help alleviate the financial problems of our members," Ignacio said.

SSS also allowed the presentation of other government-issued identification cards aside from the Social Security Card or Unified Multi-Purpose Identification (UMID) card as a form of identification. (SSS)
