CAVITE CITY – Scores of pet owners and villagers here on Thursday could not help it but watched in pain and waited while their pet dogs and cats were subjected to spaying and castration by a team of veterinarians from the Department of Health (DOH) Calabarzon and this city veterinary office.

The veterinary teams, however, assured the owners that their pets would wake up following the spaying and castration at the Barangay 29-A Multi Purpose Hall, Ronquillo Caridad Road.

The DOH and veterinary offices led the first in a series of spay and castration operations in the province to curb the rising population of dogs and cats and avert rabies infection.

Around 81 pets underwent the procedure during the seven-hour period, covering around 52 dogs and 29 cats. ...Page 4

ATI prods media to help with farmers training

TRECE MARTIRES CITY, Cavite, Mar. 31 (PIA) – The Agricultural Training Institute (ATI) IV-A prodded the media to help them with farmers training during its recently conducted media conference held at the ATI Regional Training Center IV-A here.

The conference attended by media personnel from Cavite, Laguna and as far as Quezon provinces, served as venue for the presentation and promotion of ATI's various programs and services.

Dubbed “CONNECT Engaging ATI RTC IV-A Programs and Services through Media Linkages,” the conference has opened a connection with the media as it even more emphasized its important role in cascading and disseminating vital information to the public such as the farmers sector.

The conference was in line with ATI's mandate to train Agricultural Extension Workers (AEWs) and their beneficiaries being the Department of Agriculture's extension and training arm aimed to improve the current state of the country's agriculture.

Marites Piamonte-Cosico, center director of ATI RTC IV-A welcomed the media representatives as she highlighted their important role in keeping transparency open in government as well as timely reporting of information to the public. “Napakahalaga ng papel ng media sa pagkakaroon ng transparency at mabilis na paglalahad ng impormasyon sa publiko,” she said.

Recognizing the change brought about by modern technology, Cosico acknowledged the need to also upgrade their services. “Isa itong dahilan kung bakit ang aming tanggapan ay kailangan ding mag upgrade ng aming serbisyo publiko para mas madali ang pakikipag ugnayan sa aming kliyente.”

Among the media strategies utilized by the center to connect with farmers include the School-on-Air, a training program aired thru radio stations that has helped a total of 3,000 farmers over a period of three years.

The School-on-Air program teaches about sustainable pig-raising, corn and organic farming and other related topics.

The center also used the internet to organize 56 Farmers Information Technology Services or FITS centers in partnership with the local and municipal governments and public colleges and universities “that made our connection and information dissemination much more fast and effective.”

“Sa katunayan, kinilala na ang aming center na pinakamagaling sa larangan ng Knowledge Management and Information Services,” Cosico noted.

In closing, Cosico expressed hope that the media will be ATI's partner to help intensify their mandate to reach more farmers and other stakeholders to be educated with the right information that will be useful for the improvement of agriculture in the province and the country as well. Annual Pawikan Festival continues to save marine turtles

MUNICIPALITY OF NAIC, Cavite (PIA) – A total of two hundred seventy seven participants recently attended the 8th Annual Pawikan Festival celebration with the theme, “Pawikan... Biyaya ng Kalikasan, kaya bantayan, pangalagaan, pakawalan” held at the Naic Pawikan Conservation Area in Barangay Labac here. This year’s program was made thru the efforts of the Provincial Environment and Natural Resources Office (PENRO) that aimed to entice various agencies and stakeholders to become partners of the Naic Pawikan Conservation Project with the advocacy of conserving and protecting marine turtles.

Rogelio Bilugan, Barangay Captain of Barangay Labac welcomed the guests and participants as he expressed gratitude for the efforts of the community “who are vigilant in the conservation of marine turtles” and to the various stakeholders for their unwavering support for this advocacy. Municipal Mayor Junio Dualan highlighted the importance of the project saying: “the Naic Pawikan Conservation Project brought much recognition to the municipality (Naic) on biodiversity conservation. Hence the municipality shall continue to support biodiversity conservation measures thru the Pawikan Conservation Project.” During the program, a simultaneous boat race and poster making contest which showed care for the marine turtles was conducted. Winners for the boat race were Aefer Domingo and Larry Villaroa while five winners out of seventeen (17) student contenders from ten (10) secondary schools in Naic excelled in the poster making contests. First and second place were won by Jude Michael Gilves and Danna Liza Nillo of the Naic National High School respectively while Jonathan Roger Masikat from Kingsway Christian Academe placed third; Sean de Guzman from La Vlaize Integrated Science High School won fourth place, and landed in fifth place was Lito Mentil of the Naic Coastal National High School. The participants enjoyed seeing the hatchlings crawl to the sea after they released them during the highlight of the ceremonies. The continuous care for the wild life entails public involvement and is everybody’s concern because it will preserve biodiversity for our children and the youth of the future to enjoy. Feature: 2019 World Autism Awareness Day observance By United Nations

Autism awareness has grown worldwide in recent years. For the United Nations, the rights of persons with disabilities, including persons with autism, as enshrined in the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD), are an integral part of its mandate.

When world leaders adopted the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in 2015, the international community reaffirmed its strong commitment to inclusive, accessible and sustainable development, and pledged that no one would be left behind. In this context, the participation of persons with autism as both agents and beneficiaries is essential for the realization of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

For many people on the autism spectrum, access to affordable assistive technologies is a prerequisite to being able to exercise their basic human rights and participate fully in the life of their communities, and thereby contribute to the realization of the SDGs. Assistive technology can reduce or eliminate the barriers to their participation on an equal basis with others.

The Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities acknowledges the instrumental role of assistive technologies in enabling persons with disabilities to exercise their rights and freedoms. It obliges States that are party to the Convention to promote availability and use of such technologies at an affordable cost, to facilitate access to them, and to undertake or promote research and development into new such technologies.

While technological advances are continuous, there are still major barriers to the use of assistive technologies, including high costs, lack of availability, lack of awareness of their potential, and a lack of training in their use. Available data indicates that, in several developing countries, more than 50% of the persons with disabilities who need assistive devices are not able to receive them.

In September 2018, the UN Secretary-General launched a new Strategy on New Technologies, which aims to define how the United Nations system will support the use of these technologies to accelerate the achievement of the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda. The Strategy is also intended to facilitate the alignment of these technologies with the values enshrined in the UN Charter and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, and the norms and standards of International Law, including the CRPD and other human rights conventions. These values include equality and equity, inclusion and transparency. Design and use of new technologies, according to the Strategy, should be guided by a rights-based and ethical perspective.

In the context of the Secretary-General's Strategy, the 2019 World Autism Awareness Day observance at UN Headquarters in New York will focus on leveraging the use of assistive technologies for persons with autism as a tool in removing the barriers to their full social, economic and political participation in society, and in promoting equality, equity and inclusion. Topics to be addressed through discussions with self-advocates and experts include:

- The Internet and digital communities: Leveling the playing field
- Independent living: Smart home technology and more
- Education and employment: Communication and executive functioning
- Telemedicine: Opening the doors to healthcare
- The right to be heard: Political participation and advocacy

In 2008, The United Nations General Assembly unanimously declared 2 April as World Autism Awareness Day. The 2019 observance of the Day at UN Headquarters is organized by the UN Department of Global Communications and Department of Economic and Social Affairs, in close cooperation with persons with autism and their representative organizations. "This is the first of series of spay and castration operations in the entire province to sway the population of dogs and cats in the province, besides the free anti-rabies vaccines," Dr. Gloria Digma, officer-in-charge of Cavite Provincial Veterinary Office, said.

Digma said spaying and castration program is one of the government's three intervention measures aimed at eradicating rabies, reduce the dog and cat population and intensify information dissemination in the barangays.

Barangay 29-A Village chair Araceli Sease welcomed the government's spaying and castration program to avert the prevalence of stray dogs and cats in the village where incidences of animal bites were reported in October last year.

"We are the ones that has a rabies case here in the city last year where two teens were bitten by stray dog along Ronquillo road," Sease struggle of commuting residents of the city particularly the difficulty in taking a ride due to the insufficiency of buses going out to nearby cities in the metropolis as well as the traffic congestion along the city's major thoroughfares.

Based on a survey, illegally parked vehicles along the road, sidewalks used by vendors, tricycles plying the main thoroughfares, undisciplined crossing of pedestrians, unauthorized loading and unloading zones, and the unsystematic manual intervening of traffic aides especially during the rush hours were all identified as contributing factors to traffic congestion.

Imus City Mayor Emmanuel Maliksi (center in pink shirt) joined other stakeholders during the “Traffic Summit 2019 #WALANG Forever” held at The District Imus Training Center. The summit was initiated by the city government aimed to provide a solution to the perennial problem on transportation and traffic congestion being the main complaint of the residents. (Ruel Francisco, PIA-Cavite)

The summit served as a venue for concerned agencies and stakeholders to share their insights to identify and solve these problems.

Mayor Maliksi encouraged participants to share their ideas on how to lessen the burden and appealed for them, “to be part of the solution not of the problem.”

Heavy traffic congestion is usually experienced along Aguinaldo Highway, the main roads in Bucandala, Bayan Luma, Carsadang Bago, NIA (National Irrigation Administration), Nueno Avenue, Imus Market, Patindig Araw, and Malagasang Coastal/ Open Canal.

Mr. Kristoffer John Dakis, Consultant of the Office of the Mayor presented the plans and programs of the Transport and Traffic Framework in hopes to ease the congestion problem. (Ruel Francisco, PIA-Cavite) get bill into law," Lacson said.

He noted several pensioners and retired military and uniformed personnel had asked him about the supposed budget cut for their pension.

Earlier reports quoted House appropriations committee chairman Rolando Andaya Jr. as saying the Senate made several budget cuts, including for the Pension and Gratuity Fund.

Also, Lacson advised pensioners to be wary of fake news, especially those desperate to keep their "pork" in the budget.

"It's bad enough that some parties continue to peddle lies to confuse the public, all to keep their pork. It's worse if they claim they are doing this in the name of transparency. Fake news na, fake transparency pa," he said.

Lacson had sought to increase the Pension and Gratuity Fund in the 2019 budget by P876.42 million to fund the additional P15,000 increase in old-age pension of 4,869 senior veterans.

Also, he and Sen. Gregorio Honasan II co-authored the Senate Joint Resolution authorizing the increase in the base pay of military and uniformed personnel in the government, and for other purposes.

The Senate Joint Resolution was approved and signed as Joint Resolution No. 01.

On the other hand, Lacson noted none of the amendments he proposed to the budget bill involved budget cuts for the pension of military and uniformed personnel.

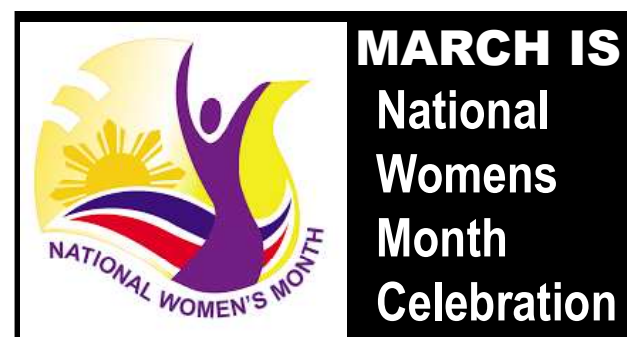

Lacson sought as well an increase of P666.219 million for the Veterans Memorial Medical Center's 2019 budget, so it can acquire medicines for its patients.

He said the VMMC sought his help as he was defending the budget of the Department of National Defense, which supervises the VMMC.

"The VMMC said the price index for medicines went up, and this will affect its service to its patients. During the budget hearing of the Department of Health, I asked DOH Sec. Francisco Duque III if there was indeed such a price increase for medicine, and he confirmed it. That prompted me to seek an institutional amendment for the VMMC's budget for medicines," he said.

On the other hand, Lacson sought a cut in the appropriations for Road Right of Way in the Department of Public Works and Highways' budget, since the DPWH itself pointed out it did not need the amount.

It was during the interpellations that the DPWH disclosed, through Senate finance panel chairperson Loren Legarda, that there are still funds for RROW from its FY 2018 appropriations that have yet to be utilized, and the DPWH said it does not need P20 billion for 2019.
